Ñawpa Pacha, Journal of Andean Archaeology ("antiquity" in the Inca language) is the oldest, most prestigious peer-reviewed journal in Andean studies. Founded in 1963 by John Rowe at University of California Berkeley, the journal has for four decades been publishing the most important and innovative research on the archaeology of the Andean region of South America.

Submissions: Manuscripts may be submitted in the author's native language, and will generally be published in the language in which they are written. Reference and footnote style should follow that of American Antiquity. More details on manuscript format is available at the Institute of Andean Studies website. New submissions should be sent to: Dr. Jerry D. Moore, Department of Anthropology, California State University Dominguez Hills 1000 E. Victoria St., Carson, CA 90747, jmoore@csudh.edu.

Editor: Katharina Schreiber is Chair of the Department of Anthropology at University of California Santa Barbara. She has served as editor of the journal since 2006.
